

Addendum and errata

The Chilean mayten article in our previous issue (New Zealand Garden Journal, 2016, Vol. 19, No. 2, p. 29), described this species as dioecious (having separate male and female plants). However, the sexuality and reproductive biology of this species may be more complex and closer examination of New Zealand material may be warranted. Some overseas accounts suggest that Chilean mayten is monoecious (with male and female flowers together on the same plant) or polygamous (bearing some flowers with stamens only, some with pistils only, and occasionally some with both, on the same or different plants).

In the obituary prepared for the late Rod Bieleski (New Zealand Garden Journal, 2016, Vol. 19, No. 2, p. 35), it was stated that he was awarded a BSc in 1949, but the correct date Rod gained his BSc was 1952. Dr Ross Ferguson has prepared a comprehensive obituary on Rod Bieleski for the Royal Society of New Zealand website (<http://royalsociety.org.nz/organisation/academy/fellowship/obituaries/>).

Notes for contributors to The New Zealand Garden Journal

- The New Zealand Garden Journal is a professional journal aimed at those with an in-depth interest in plants, and an enthusiasm for sharing ideas and knowledge of their origins, conservation, cultivation and use in gardens, parks and open spaces.
- The journal is published twice a year in June and December. Copy dates are 1 April and 1 October, respectively.
- Articles should be informative, accurate and well-founded. They are not treated to a formal refereeing process, but we encourage the more technical papers to be peer reviewed before submission. For more technical articles, we may seek independent advice and feedback.
- References should follow the convention adopted in recent issues.
- Articles can be up to 5000 words, preferably submitted electronically in Microsoft Word or RTF format, either on disk or as an email attachment.
- Articles will be returned to authors only if major editorial changes are required, or on request.
- Authors will not receive proofs for checking unless they specify this when submitting the article. Proofs are checked carefully by several people before printing.
- Photographs and/or illustrations should be included with captions written at the end of the article. Images must be copyright free and if not the authors work, be fully credited to the original photographer or source and full permissions obtained. Images should be supplied ideally as high definition electronic copies, or as good quality photographs and slides. All original photographs and slides will be returned.
- Authors will receive two complimentary copies of the relevant journal issue on publication. Additional copies will be available at cost.
- Online versions of the journal are uploaded on the Royal New Zealand Institute of Horticulture website at www.rnzih.org.nz.
